Artist Statement

Everyone needs a passion and I have found mine painting the Vermont landscape, beautiful in every season. The ever changing light offers unlimited inspiration for me along with the challenges associated with the medium. My paintings are an interpretation of the places I visit and the vistas I capture around my home and beyond. It's all about the process, not the results. It's about staying in the moment. I try to do that giving myself practice with color, placement, balance and all the rest while celebrating the happy accidents. This process is what gets me up in the morning and keeps the creative juices flowing all day long. I especially enjoy weekly plein air painting with fellow artists and recent trips to France just fueled the fire for more painting experiences. I earned an art degree from Iowa State University and have taken watercolor workshops over the years from some well-known watercolorists. I hold a signature membership with the Vermont Watercolor Society and am a member of the board of directors.
